Welcome to SMPC. The purpose of this letter is to let you know what to expect from me and our team and to answer some questions that we respond to on a regular basis.

Our practice is not built on a single course of treatment, but on the best use of multiple team members and options. Your treatment with us may involve medications, injections, behavioral health and/or physical therapy. Our goal is to do what works for you; our recommendations are based on a thorough assessment of your current health and your goals for improvement.

Medications may be used to help manage pain, often times they can be a very effective part of a pain management plan. However, we are always looking to find the root cause of the problem so that we aren't masking the symptoms. Pain can be a major hurdle to many daily activities so behavioral therapy including biofeedback and counseling may be a vital component of care. In addition, physical therapy can provide just the right touch to compliment your overall treatment goals.

We use injections for two main reasons. One, is to help diagnose the source of the pain, the second is that it can be therapeutic in reducing pain. Back pain provides an example. Some sources of back pain may be very obvious such as a large disc herniation. In other cases the exact source of back pain may be less certain. I put medications at different spots in the back to help diagnose & treat the source. Not every patient is a good candidate for injections, frequently they can be used to help a person feel better. Injections can initially be used to break the cycle of constant debilitating pain. As a continued treatment, longer lasting injections can be used to encourage activity and reduce the need for medications. Injections coupled with behavioral & physical therapy and/or medication can be a winning combination for helping you to get back to daily activities and to have reduced pain.

Again, I welcome you to my practice and I hope this letter answers a few of your questions. I realize that you may have additional questions and I welcome the opportunity to address them when we meet at your first appointment. I appreciate the confidence you have by trusting your care to me and my entire team. We are all eager to meet you and to help you manage your pain.

Sincerely,

Southern Michigan Pain Consultants

Welcome to SMPC. The purpose of this letter is to let you know what to expect from me and our team and to answer some questions that we commonly respond to from patients.

My practice is not built on a single course of treatment, but on the best use of multiple team members and treatment options. Your treatment with us will be individualized and may involve Osteopathic manipulative medicine (OMM), injections, medications, behavioral health and/or physical therapy.

As a musculoskeletal specialist, I utilize Osteopathic manipulative treatments (OMT) to examine, diagnose and treat the musculoskeletal system. OMT is a hands-on treatment modality used to treat musculoskeletal or somatic dysfunctions in a large group of patients including athletes, workers with on-the-job injuries, or patients with various illnesses and, of course, those with head, neck and back pain. These patients range from infants to seniors. Musculoskeletal or somatic dysfunctions can be a primary cause of pain, impair function and reduce range of motion in essentially any part of the body.

I use injections for two main reasons. First, it is to help diagnose the source of pain, the second is that it can be therapeutic in reducing pain. Back pain provides an example. Some sources of back pain may be very obvious, such as herniation. In other cases the exact source of the back pain may be less certain. Not every patient is a good candidate for injections but frequently they can be used to help a person feel better. Injections can initially be used to break the cycle of constant debilitating pain. As a continued treatment, longer lasting injections can be used to encourage activity and reduce the need for medications. Injections coupled with OMT, physical therapy, behavioral health, and/or medications can be a winning combination for helping you to get back to daily activities and to have reduced pain.

Again, I welcome you to my practice and hope this letter addresses a few of your questions. I realize that you may have additional questions and I welcome the opportunity to address them when we meet at your first appointment. I appreciate the confidence that you have by trusting your care to me and my entire team. We are all eager to meet you and to help manage your pain.

Healthy regards
